When I was a child, making toys for yourself was a tradition. I used to design my own toys such as toy cars, baby dolls, hobby-horses. I remember that I sewed a dress for my baby doll. It was really enjoyable. But toys have changed in today's world. There are so many types of toys and the children have a lot of toys now, but they are not happy and they don't feel enough. They usually spend time on the Internet. They play online games and chat on social media platforms, so they have few friends and they are not social outside. We didn't use to have many technological devices such as computers or smartphones and we used to have face to face communication. I really miss my childhood.
