1. Read the text about extreme sports and answer the questions. (5x5= 25 p.)

Extreme sports have become more popular in recent years, attracting people who enjoy adrenaline and adventure. These sports test both physical and mental strength, often involving speed, height, and tough environments. Examples include skydiving and paragliding, which take place in the air and require courage and control. Snowboarding is done on snowy slopes and demands balance and quick reflexes. Scuba diving lets people explore underwater worlds, while kitesurfing uses wind to glide across the sea. Another exciting activity is caving, where participants explore dark and narrow underground spaces. These sports often happen in extreme natural environments like mountains, oceans, the sky, or deep underground. In short, extreme sports offer the thrill of danger and the joy of overcoming challenges in amazing environments.

3. Read the text and categorize the adjectives mentioned in the text as positive or negative. (10x3=30 p.)

My friends are all very different, which makes our group interesting. For example, Emily is incredibly thoughtful, always remembering birthdays and bringing little gifts. On the other hand, Jake can be quite impatient when things don't go his way. Olivia is cheerful and makes everyone laugh, but sometimes she's also a bit bossy during group projects. Liam is very organized, which helps us stay on track, while Mark is a little dishonest—he once said he finished his part of the homework when he hadn't even started! Sophia is supportive and listens when someone needs to talk, but Daniel can be moody and hard to predict. Even though Emma is jealous at times, she's also respectful and tries to understand others better. Our personalities don't always match, but that's what makes our friendship stronger.
